COMPANY TRADEMARK USAGE GUIDELINES

These guidelines are for licensees, authorized resellers, and customers of nVoq Incorporated (“Company”) (collectively “Licensees”) wishing to use Company’s trademarks or service marks in promotional, advertising, instructional, or reference materials, or on their web sites, products, labels, or packaging who have been approved to do so in writing by the Company. Licensees may use the Company Marks solely for the purpose authorized by Company and only in compliance with the specifications, directions, information and standards supplied by Company and modified by Company from time to time. Company considers its trademarks and service marks to be valuable intellectual property assets. As such, Company will take all appropriate measures to preserve the strength of and retain its exclusive rights to use its marks. Company asks that you assist us by following these Guidelines. If you have any questions about the Guidelines, please direct them to legal@nvoq.com.

Licensees agree to comply with any requirements established by Company concerning the style, design, display and use of the Company Marks; to correctly use the trademark symbol [™] or registration symbol [®] with every use of the trademarks, service marks and/or trade names as part of the Company Marks as instructed by Company; to use the registration symbol [®] upon receiving notice from Company of registration of any trademarks, service marks and/or trade names that are part of the Company Marks. Licensees may not alter the Company Marks in any manner without Company’s written approval.

Licensees may not use the Company Marks in any manner that implies sponsorship or endorsement by Company of services and products other than those provided by Company.

Every Company Mark must be followed with an appropriate noun consisting of the product or service that is branded with the mark. Company Marks are adjectives and may not be used as nouns, or alone as a shorthand way of identifying a product or service. The Company Marks must never be used in possessive or plural forms, and should never be used as a verb. Company Marks should be used as adjectives describing a product or service of Company. The only exception to this rule is when the Company name is used to identify Company as a company.

Always attribute the Company Marks with the proper symbol ([®], [™] or sm), placing the symbol immediately after the trademark, either in superscript or in parenthetical form.

The trademark legend, the legal text that identifies Company's trademarks, should be printed in legible type and in a location typically used for copyright and other legal notices. For example, the legend may be printed at the end of a document, on the back of a package, on the front cover of documentation, or on the bottom of a web page. For a list of current Company Marks, please contact legal@nvoq.com.
